"Come on Dexter, we have to get there early or you’ll be spotted," Dood, the seven year old, ginger haired boy, commanded to a very reluctant and stubborn Dexter dog. Quickly, Dood put on his blue fleece coat and baseball hat to protect him from the biting cold outside his home, in a suburban ordinary street, in a town by the sea. "How many times do I have to tell you Dood?" Dexter explained in a muffled tone from under the bed, "Dogs don't go to school! They snooze, woof and eat....simple!"
"Dex, I need you there buddy.... Just to get me through the science test! You can hover over Floral Fergie and check out the answers... It’s the only way I’m ever going to pass!" he pleaded. Unsurprisingly, Dexter was a rather grumpy beagle that Monday morning.
